Transitus of St Francis

October 3 is the vigil of St. Francis of Assisi's death and bears a special name — the Transitus. October 4 is the day the Church sets aside to celebrate St. Francis of Assisi's death — his birth into eternal life. Francis is easily one of the Church's most beloved and venerated saints. Thus, even the vigil of his death is celebrated in style. Unfortunately, there are no special celebrations locally this year, though the Shrine of Saint Anthony has an outdoor mass.

HOLY MEN AND WOMEN

Blessed Pedro Arrupe, SJ

Pedro Arrupe, superior general of the Jesuits died on Feb 5 1991. His belief that the gospel requires effective solidarity with a suffering world had roots in his early years as a priest. Assigned to Japan, he was present in Hiroshima on August 6 1945...

"I was in my room with another priest at 8:15 when suddenly we saw a blinding light, like a flash of magnesium. As I opened the door which faced the city, we heard a formidable explosion similar to the blast of a hurricane. At the same time doors, windows and walls fell on us in smithereens. From atop a nearby hill we could see a ruined city—a decimated Hiroshima. Since it was at a time when the first meal was being prepared in all the kitchens, the entire city became one enormous flake of fire in two and a half hours.

I shall never forget my first sight of the result of the atomic bomb: a group of young women, 18 or 20 years old, clinging to one another as they dragged themselves along the road. One had a blister that almost covered her chest. She had burns across half her face and a cut in her scalp caused probably by falling tile, while great quantities of blood coursed down her face. On and on they came a steady procession numbering some 150,000. This gives some idea of the horror that was Hiroshima.

We continued looking for some way of entering the city, but it was impossible. We did the only thing that could be done in the presence of such mass slaughter: we fell on our knees and prayed for guidance, as we were destitute of all human help. The following day, before beginning to take care of the wounded and bury the dead, I celebrated Mass at 5am in the house. In these very moments one feels closer to God, and more deeply the value of God's aid. Actually the surroundings did not foster devotion for the celebration of the Mass. The chapel, half destroyed, was overflowing with the wounded, lying on the floor near one another, suffering terribly, twisted with pain."

Blessed Pedro Arrupe's Hiroshima Diary

The head of a Madonna statue that survived the Nagasaki atomic bomb. It is located in the Urakami Catholic chapel. The statue was destroyed during the bombing and buried in the rubble. The blackened head was found by a recently discharged Japanese soldier who happened to be also a Trappist monk.

Grant me, O Lord, to see everything now with new eyes, to discern and test the spirits that help me read the signs of the times, and to communicate them to others. Give me clarity of understanding that you gave Ignatius. - Blessed Pedro Arrupe, SJ

SECRETARY'S BY-LINE

Susan Burns rightly reminded us of the injustice faced by Native Americans in the United States. The plight they face is no less daunting than Black Americans. I believe that only by being truthful can we imagine a better way. So, I have included links for two recent articles which have appeared in the Baltimore Sun and Annapolis Capital Gazette by Gerald Winegrad, former Maryland State Delegate. If you would like to go much deeper I am reading Unworthy Republic by Claudio Saunt. I was surprised to learn the same characters involved with enslavement of black people were responsible for the forced migration of Native Americans across the Mississippi.

REQUIEM FOR BLACK CHILDREN OF GOD

Brothers and sisters, the scars of systemic racism plague our nation, our communities, and our churches. Far too long, too many of us stood silent as our Black brothers and sisters succumbed by the brutal blows of racism's cruel injustice. Let us say their names, those who bled and died on this punishing cross and ask forgiveness. Forgive us we pray.
